Popular Demand Brings About Repetition of "Oldest Inhabitant's Dream."

The District of Columbbia historic pageant held at Central High School, March 29, will be repeated June 6 at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of Central High School, under the auspices of the All States Society of Washington and the Community Centers.

So popular has the demand been for repetition of the pageant, which depicts historical episodes of the Dis-trict of Columbia, that those in charge lecided to re-stage it.

"The Dream of the Oldest Inhabi-tant," as the pageant is entitled, re-volves in theme about the desire of volves in theme about the desire of the average Washingtonian for the right to citizenship and the vote. Its presentation is peculiarly timely in view of the fact that a new Congress has come into being, and it is being repeated largely for this reason.

During its first presentation Congress was not in session and the "point" of the pageant was largely lost on those for whom it would do the most good. Invitations have been the most good. Invitations have been issued to all the members of Congress. A select cast of 125 talented Washingtonians, including fifteen or twenty children from the Public Schools, has been chosen. A professional touch is lent by the fact that Lola May, former leading lady with Douglas Fairbanks, will appear. She for merly played in Washington in "The Gentleman from Mississippi."

Miss May will appear in the second episode in the scene entitled, "The Reception of the Marquis de Lafayette in 1784." Estelle Murray, prima donna of "Sweethearts" and "Chimes of Normandy" in the com-munity productions of the Peoples National Opera Company, will also appear in this scene.

The entire pageant, given in eleven episodes, a prologue, and a tableau, was staged under the direction of Miss Marie Lenora De Grange, pageantry director. Miss De Grange both costumed and coached the production, which is considered highly artistic in the realm of amateur pageantry. Miss Cecil B. Norton, general secretary of community cen ters of the public schools, had charge G.W.U. Sorority Findings Bombof the business arrangements. An organ recital by Edith B. Athey

How Many Health Builders Have You Tried?

We do not boast that we have the only good proposition on the market, neither do we claim our product to be a "cure-all" for every ill under the sun! Our aim is to place within the reach of the people of the South, a real cod liver extract that has a definite purpose—and that purpose is to inject invigorating iron into your jaded blood, and ample amount of cod liver extract and wild cherry for your upset stomach and hypophosphites in sufficient quantity to take those "jumpy," irritable nerves in hand and tone them down. The quick action that Dalys takes on your blood, nerves and stomach, stamps it as a health and body builder of the highest order. By SUCCESSFULLY keeping these three vital parts of your body in proper fighting trim, and helping them to turn aside attacking ills, proves conclusively that Dalys has not fallen down on the job and is capable of accomplishing everything that we claim for it. Agricultural Secretary Said to Favor Law Abolishing Costly Market System.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was represented last night by Senators from Western and Southern agricultural States as favoring Congressional legislation to authorize the formation of associations or organizations of farmers throughout the country for the purpose of eliminating the "speculative middle man and unnecessary profit-taker."

Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, has a bill pending in the Senate providing for such legislation, and the agricultural Senatorial bloc with which ne is prominently identified has swung behind it.

Capper explains that under existing tatutes the legality of such co-operation as is planned is constantly questioned. "Co-operative associations have been prosecution and harassed by selfish business interests," he says. "My bill does not ask for class legislation. not seek to exempt co-operative farm

RISK CHIEF, PUTS

Makes 'Em Come to Work on Time and 'Tend to Business,

Hard-boiled Forbes. This is the nickname applied to he new director of the War Risk Insurance Bureau by many of the employes of the Bureau, on account of his strenuous methods which he has employed since he assumed office a few weeks ago. Atta Boy Forbes. This is the nickname applied to the director by a host of Government officials and former soldiers who have had dealings with him during the past few weeks. Col. Charles R. Forbes, of Seattle, the new director of the War Risk Bureau, has only been in office a few weeks, but in that time he has made his presence felt both to the soldiers seeking claims and the employes of SPEEDS UP CLAIMS.

One of his first official acts after sauming office was to devise some means for speeding up the claims of the soldiers. That he has found a uccessful way is proven by the fact that within thirty days, the work of the Bureau will be current. When he came into the office there were 85,000 claims pending, and now that he has struck his stride he has re-duced the claims by 13,000, and expected to have the remainder of the accumulated claims out of the way before the beginning of the fiscal year so that he can start the new fisal year with a clean slate.

To accomplish this he not only speeded up the work of the bureau, but sdded fifty physicians to help pass upon the claims.

The bureau is now handling 2,500 claims r fay, while the average number of new claims coming into the office is about 700. Colonel Forbes says that as soon as everyone gets into the swing of his new system, the work will be pushed more rap-

While building up the efficiency of the bureau, the new director has not accomplished this end by the addition of new employes. On the contrary, he has cut the force. On June 1, 475 cmployes will be let out and an additional 525 will be let out July 1. By this method, the director has saved the Government about $1,500,000 in salaries alone. "The War Risk Insurance Bureau will be run on a business basis as long as I am connected with it." Colonel Forbes said. "It will be run with the idea that it is an instrumentality of the Government for the good of the soldiers and with a view to spending as little as possible of the people's money to see that the soldiers get their due. "I have made a personal inspection of some of the places and found that the Government was paying a great deal for the leasing of quarters to carry on the work. In my home town, Seattle, I found that the Government was paying too much rental and I immediately cut off several housands a year."

STAGGERED-HOUR PROGRAM.

Colonel Forbes has put into operawas a quart of real liquor lying at employes which has put everyone on their toes. One of his most stringent ones was the locking of the doors at 9 Stephenson as he told Rogers he would o'clock, after which time no employe as permitted to enter the building. The employes now work staggered "I dunne. Somebody surely put it hours on account of the limited elevaemployed in the building.

Another rule is the clearing of the hallways, which have always been favorite meeting places for a certain element of the employes. In former WHEN GREEK COUPLE WED years, the lobbies and hallways of the bureau were veritable promenades, now they have the silence of Due, perhaps to the strict regulations, many stories of actions by the new director have been going the here last Sunday evening by the Rev. rounds. Some sound plausible, ethers not so, while others are almost unbelievable. Every employe of the bureau who tells the story swears that it is true, but some of the higher officials say that they are pure inventions.

One story that has been creating the most laughter is the one that tells of the director going into an office and observing a young man reading a newspaper. The director went up to him and asked: "Is that all you have to do?"

"Yep," replied the young man. "Is that all you have been doing all morning," the director demand-

"Yep," said the young man. "Is that all you intend to de for the rest of the day?" "Yep." "Well, you had better go and see the appointment clerk and tell him that I, Colonel Forbes, told you to write your resignation, that you are was convicted on a charge of having nial of reports that there has been a the membership up to the maximum York production that is to open here not wanted here and if you do not do that I will fire you. "Go to, ole top," the young man replied, "and do it yourself, if you want to fire me go and see Congressman _____ I am his secretary and have been waiting around here all morning to get some information on on this claim for me. I am tired of hanging around here."

MAKES FREQUENT TOURS. The director admits that he makes tours of the building and talks with the employes to see what they are that they have nothing to fear if they will do their work and keep in mind that they have a duty to the soldier and to the Government. He told them that he expects as much work out of them as the ordinary business man would expect out of his employes and will see that he gets it. The new director is at his office every morning at 8 o'clock and remains there after every one has left. Very often he is back at his deak again after dinner and works until late into the night.
